This font is against all rules. Giambattista Bodoni himself would probably hate me for doing it, he was a real purist. The whole idea of the Bodoni typeface is »no embellishments« and here I go and decorate those nice clear letters. Shame on me! But I find this is a very nice and useful typeface for all kinds of cards and certificates. So I just did it for all of you out there that are not born purists, but want a little embellishments to their lifes. AND TO MAKE THINGS WORSE, I ADDED A SMALL CAPS CUT. I even decorated the numbers © 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 Enjoy!

This is a must read!!!

»BulletNumbers« come in very handy for all kinds of lists that don't exceed 100 categories. I have long since been using my own BulletNumbers in positive and negative and four styles, serif, sans, engravers and script, a fitting one for every occasion. Now I perfected them for all of you.

The numbers 1-0 are reside on the standard keys. Two digit numbers 01-99 can be composed out of left and right half circles by using »abcdefghij« for the first digit (left half circle) and »lmnopqrstu« for the second digit (right half circle).

The critical pairs (all combinations with 1) can be found in various places. Type »!« for 10, »#« for 11, »$« 12, »%« for 13, »&« for 14, »(« for 15, »)« for 16, »*« for 17, »+« for 18, »,« for 19, »-« for 21, ».« for 31, »/« for 41, »:« for 51, »;« for 61, »?« for 81, »_« for 91. The two arrows are on the ← and → keys. 100 can be found with shift+option+1.

The capital letter bullets A-Z can be found on the shift+letter A-Z.

Yours very practical Gert Wiescher

Copperplate is the classic nineteenth century engravers typeface, consisting of capitals and small caps only. Among others (for example Deberny & Peignot) F. W. Goudy's cut for ATF around 1901 is probably the most widely known. Copperplate typefaces are traditionally used for business cards and all that »serious« stuff. My Copperplate Classic is a completely new design, based on different old samples. To make it look more up-to-date, I gave it some extra swings here and there. The old fonts were all designed with clogging corners or »points that can break off« in the minds of its designers. Today we do not have those problems any longer, so I could give my typeface real sharp pointed serifs. For variation I designed a sister that has swashes on the capitals. And to round things off, I designed a third set of capitals only (wide ones on the shift and narrow ones on the lowercase). Enjoy!

»DesignerScript« is a very cool script, that has only one objective and that is pure transportation of information. Attracting as little attention to the script itself as possible. Your very cool and restraint Gert Wiescher

This font was inspired by David Farey. Hoe once wrote, somebody should honor the widow of Giambattista Bodoni the brave Signora »Paola Margherita Dall'Aglio« for her effort to have the »Manuale tipografico di Giambattista Bodoni« published after his dead. Since I have redesigned a good deal of Bodonis work and added some of my own, I thought it was my duty to do at least this for Bodonis unknown widow. Here is my 3cut-script in her honor »DonnaBodoni«.

Since many years I live in Munich and read the daily newspaper »Abendzeitung«. One morning they had redesigned the paper, using Eric Gills »Joanna« for the bodycopy and a tweaked version of »Franklin Gothic« for the headlines. Since both typefaces are my alltime favourites, I was very pleased. But the old handlettered chapter headings looked worse than before. Someone who obviously did not know much about typedesign had tried his hand at adapting them to the electronic age. Every morning I saw those letters and thought »one day I have to clean that up«. About 15 years later I finally did it! Being at it, I designed the whole typeface and added a second »fancy« cut. What do you know, maybe the people at the Abendzeitung will one day start using it. Yours wondering Gert Wiescher

»HebrewLatino« was started out of frustration. I could not find a font that looked like Hebrew - actually I found one, but it had only capitals. So I decided to make my own. Strangely enough it looks a little bit »Jugendstylish«! Here it is. Shalom! Gert Wiescher

My son Konstantin wants to become a cook so I thought it might be a nice present for him if I design a script for his fabulous future menues. • Mein Sohn Konstantin will Koch werden, da habe ich gedacht es wäre doch ein nettes Geschenk für ihn seine tollen zukünftigen Menüs in seinem eigenen Script schreiben zu können. • Mon fils Konstantin veeux être cuisinier. Alors j'ai lui fait cadeaux son propre script pour les fabuleux menues de son future.

»Scirocco« is a hot and humid wind that blows from the Sahara over to France and Italy. It crosses the mediterranean sea and carries lots of fine desertdust with it. Once it hits the costs of Provençe one can feel it grinding ones teeth and see it as a fine dustcover on every car. It makes people go nuts!
»Scirocco« the typeface has that same hot moving character and the finer hairlines giving it a kind of arabic touch. If you use it too much, it will make you go nuts. Your pretty crazy Gert Wiescher

Scriptissimo is, as the name says, very much of a script! It is in the best American tradition. A script that could have served for writing the Constitution with, if only they would have had computers at that time.
Scriptissimo consists of three different scripts that are meant to be used together. One is the script with the more or less plain characters. Two is the version for characters to start a word with. Three is the cut that has the characters for the end of a word. Ligatures is used for, well, ligatures and some glyphs like Ltd., GmbH, and so on.
Scriptissimo is a very elegant and versatile script. It can be used for chocolate bars as well as stock certificates. I really enjoyed designing it. Yours scriptissimo, Gert Wiescher

Scriptissimo-Forte is the bold version of Scriptissimo. When using the normal cut of Scriptissimo I sometimes had the feeling that I could well use a bolder cut to make a bigger impression, so I simply made that cut for myself. I think you can use it too; try it out. Yours very bold scriptissimo, Gert Wiesche

»Sunwind« is not really made to write long copy. It is a font for shopsigns and short sentences that need that hot, sunny and windy touch. And that is how I got around to designing it: I saw some letters on a shopsign in Cannes when driving into town. I shouted at my son Julius: »Quick take a picture of that sign, the blue one.« That's what he did, only he used the macro setting, so I had a very small sign but lots of nice background. Anyway I got the basic idea! Then I made a lot of sketches and this is what came out. I added a smallcaps set and I also made some initials as a rough version, so they look like written with a brush on heavygrain paper. See the next page!
